The Athens Technological Organization (ATO)

The Athens Technological Organization (ATO) is a non-profit organization established in 1958 to further technology and scientific research on any subject which can contribute to the improvement of human living conditions, technical and economic development and the training of people capable of pursuing these purposes.

Athens Center of Ekistics (ACE)

Upon its establishment in 1958, ATO started ekistic research and educational programs and later on in 1963 established the Athens Center of Ekistics (ACE) to foster a concerted program of research, education, documentation, and international cooperation related to the art and science concerned with the development of human settlements. In the domain of documentation in addition to its library, ACE publishes the following two journals:

- Ekistics, the Problems and Science of Human Settlements, and
- The Ekistic Index of Periodicals, as well as
- A series of research reports and monographs documenting its following four major research projects:

- "The City of the Future"
- "The Capital of Greece"
- "The Human Community"
- "The Ancient Greek Cities"

Since 1965 ATO-ACE have hosted on their premises the Headquarters and Secretariat of the World Society for Ekistics (WSE), an independent organization, whose goals and objectives are compatible with those of ACE.

World Society for Ekistics (WSE)

The Society is a nonpolitical and nonreligious body with limited membership, formed to study man's patterns of living and their physical expression in the past, present, and future. The aims and objectives of the Society are:

- To promote the development of knowledge and ideas concerning human settlements by research and through publications, conferences, etc.;
- To encourage the development and expansion of education in ekistics;
- To educate public opinion concerning ekistics, thus stimulating worldwide interest and cooperation;
- To recognize the benefits and the necessity of an interdisciplinary approach to the needs of human settlements, and to promote and emphasize such an approach.

The Society is an international nongovernmental organization (NGO) in consultative status with the United Nations (ECOSOC since 1970).

Cover: Copy of the poster produced for the 2005 meetings of the WSE in Hikone, Japan, 19-24 September, 2005 (designer Masahiro Minami, University of Shiga Prefecture, Hikone).

The papers in this issue are selected from documents presented – or made available to participants – at the symposion on “Globalization and Local Identity,” which took place on the premises of the University of Shiga Prefecture, Hikone, Japan from 19 to 24 September, 2005 at the invitation of Professor Takashi Doi, Vice President of the World Society for Ekistics, Professor at the University of Shiga Prefecture, and Chairman of the Steering Committee for the organization of the meetings consisting of Haruhiko Goto, Catharine Nagashima, Koichi Nagashima, Nobuyuki Sekiguchi and Koichi Tonuma. Papers, solicited by Takashi Doi and/or members of the Steering Committee, were edited by P. Psomopoulos following consultation with the authors whenever possible and in collaboration with Catharine Nagashima, Guest Editor, for texts originally written in Japanese. Alex Freme-Skliros proofread the texts and selected photographs and other illustrations for the volume – except those provided by authors in their own papers – from films offered mainly by Noriko Doi but also by Starnie Skliros. Niki Choleva was responsible for typesetting, graphics and the final dummy for a maquette by the Editor. A substantial part of the printing costs for this volume was covered by grants from Takashi Doi, Koichi Tonuma and the World Society for Ekistics.
